Meet your friendly and knowledgeable library staff members!

CUE Library remains available to support your teaching needs virtually. In preparation for your upcoming classes we invite you to consider a few things.

Find out what's changed.

In order to protect the health and safety of the CUE community, some of our services have changed in response to COVID-19.

Check your links to online library resources

It's best if you can check your links to CUE Library's online resources – such as, articles, ebook chapters, streaming videos, etc. – as soon as possible.

A Guide to Sharing Links to Online Library Resources

[Have Questions? Contact Your
Program's Liaison Librarian Here](#)

* Do you also teach at another post-secondary institution? CUE students can only access CUE-owned articles, ebooks, and streaming videos.

Consult with CUE's copyright officer

Ensure your course materials are copyright compliant by emailing CUE's Copyright Officer as early in your course preparation process as possible. This is especially important if you plan to scan copyrighted material (e.g. a chapter from a print book) and share it with your students.

Contact CUE's Campus Copyright Officer:

lynette.toews-neufeldt@concordia.ab.ca

Ensuring that course materials are copyright compliant takes time, and requests for compliance reviews will be dealt with in the order in which they are received.

Schedule an online library instruction session

Program liaison librarians are available to provide your students with valuable research instruction sessions for your online classes.

Schedule a Library Instruction Session Here

Online library instruction sessions can take various forms:

- A live virtual demonstration (Google Hangouts, Zoom, etc.)
- Sharing library instructional materials (PowerPoint/PDF slides etc.)

Recommend a purchase

CUE instructors are encouraged to recommend books, ebooks, videos, and other materials that support the learning outcomes of their courses.

Learn More About Making Purchase Recommendations Here

Liaison librarians will make ordering decisions based on CUE Library's collection principles and the availability of funding.

Request an ebook licensing check

Are you planning on posting a link to a CUE Library ebook in your Moodle? Let library staff check to see if the ebook's license can accommodate your entire class.

Request a licensing check by emailing - myrna.dean@concordia.ab.ca
