Machine Learning & AI Bootcamp

RoboGarden is an easy-to-understand game-based platform that teaches students to learn how to code through taking part in active learning. RoboGarden was based on a philosophy called “Learn to earn”, which means helping students to develop the digital skills needed for the growing digital economy, today and in the future. RoboGarden delivers bootcamps with real-world scenarios and applications, and uses their educational platform developed by experts and delivered online, to get the learners prepared for the future.

The Machine Learning and Artificial Intelligence Bootcamp has been designed for those who have interest in programming, data analysis, and developing for automation. Without having any prior programming experience, students will learn programming skills that will allow them to get into the world of machine learning, artificial intelligence, and data analytics. Upon completion, students will be able to use data sources to make informed decisions that yield real improvements in growth, efficiency, and cost savings across all industry sectors.

This 450-hour bootcamp is a full-time online program with live instructor sessions that only needs a computer and a good internet connection.

450 hrs

The upcoming full-time Machine Learning & AI Bootcamp will start on May 23, 2022.
