INDG 391

Indigenous Engagement and Collaboration

Fall 2022 • Thursdays • 5:00 to 7:50 pm

Jed Johns

Nehiyaw (Cree) from Treaty 8 Territory
Manager, Government and Indigenous
Relations | EPCOR Utilities Inc.

Prerequisites: INDG 290 and 2nd Year Standing

This course provides students with an interdisciplinary approach to working with Indigenous communities, industry partners, and government relations. Focused primarily on the incorporation of Indigenous worldviews, students will be immersed in an integrated learning experience focused on Indigenous engagement and community collaboration including, but not limited to consultation, intellectual property, economic development, and so on. Students will work first-hand with Indigenous communities throughout the semester as they build and manage a research project.
