Mainstage Production of Chrysothemis

By Meg Braem

Directed by Patricia
Darbasie

Chrysothemis and Electra have returned home to discover their father, King Agamemnon, murdered by their mother. Electra craves revenge while Chrysothemis is starving for peace. Using Greek culinary tradition and the events of Aeschylus' tragic trilogy "The Oresteia" as a jumping-off point, Chrysothemis explores the many appetites that drive us. Set within the murders of King Agamemnon and Queen Clytemnestra, this is the imagined story of Chrysothemis, the lost daughter in the house of Atreus. She is the only child of the myths who does not have a play accounting her voice...until now.

Renewable and Sustainable Energy Management

A Necessary Field in Energy & Resource Security

With the growing call to action on climate change, it is imperative that organizations closely monitor their energy consumption while ensuring they are conserving resources, saving costs, and meeting consumer demands. Energy managers take on this challenge by creating proactive strategies to meet an organization's energy targets.

This course, Renewable and Sustainable Energy Management, introduces students, graduates, and professionals to the tools and techniques that can be used to manage or coordinate energy sources, such as geothermal, hydro, and solar. Upon completion of the course, you will understand the roles of Energy Managers and Energy Coordinators in a company as well as how to evaluate, implement, and control a sustainable energy management plan.

Who Should Take this Course?

There are no prerequisites for this course and is open to anyone who is wanting to either establish themselves or upgrade their skills in the energy efficiency industry.

Expected Outcomes
